Why study Psychology at the University Of Leeds?

We take a global approach to the study of Psychology, welcoming a large international community of students, researchers and partners.

At Leeds, we offer a British Psychological Society accredited BSc Psychology degree, along with options for an additional year studying abroad, working in industry or completing an integrated Masters. These provide you with the skills to excel in the field of Psychology, while we support you every step of the way.

Scholarships
To assist you in your studies we have a number of scholarships available, these include:

• The International Science and Engineering Scholarship; a £2,000 fee deduction per academic year.
• The Head of School Excellence Scholarship; a £4,000 fee deduction per academic year.
• The School of Psychology International Masters Scholarship; a £2,000 fee deduction for those interested in our taught Masters programmes.

Please note our scholarships are subject to meeting academic criteria. To find out more, visit us on http://medhealth.leeds.ac.uk/psychology/international/scholarships

Placements
• Our 4-year BSc Psychology (Industrial) degree helps maximise your career prospects, giving you the opportunity to experience work in the field.
• To help you find a placement, our dedicated Careers Centre assign you a Work Placement Tutor and assist with CV writing, applications, and mock interviews.

“Completing my year in Industry placement was the highlight of my BSc degree”

Jade Martin, BSc Psychology (Industrial)

Support for International students
• Our helpful International Student Office offers support all year round from admissions to advice on moving to Leeds, study support trips and social activities.
• Our Language Centre offers you a wide range of materials including audio courses, computer based language learning and even a language exchange scheme.

For more information, visit us on http://medhealth.leeds.ac.uk/psychology/international

The University of Leeds holds a gold standard award in the recent Teaching Excellence Framework, is ranked 14th in the UK (The Complete University Guide) and is 101st in the QS World University rankings.