2018 Researcher Links
UK-China Workshop for Regenerative Dentistry - From tooth development to regeneration
中英口腔再生医学双边研讨会 - 从牙齿的发育到牙齿再生

Under the Researcher Links scheme offered within the Newton Fund, the British Council and National Natural and Science Foundation of China (NSFC), University of Leeds (UK) and Sichuan University (China) will be holding a joint international workshop on the above theme in Leeds (UK) from 22-24 July 2018. The workshop is being coordinated by Dr Xuebin Yang (Leeds School of Dentistry) and Professor Ling Ye (West China School of Stomatology), and will have contributions from other leading researchers. We are now inviting Early Career Researchers (ECRs) from the UK and China to apply to attend this workshop. Economy travel and accommodation expenses will be covered by the Newton Researcher Links programme and funding from NSFC (maximum level of expenditure for travel and accommodation will be confirmed at time of award).

The application form can be downloaded from here which should be returned to Julie McDermott (J.K.McDermott@leeds.ac.uk) by 20 May 2018.

This international workshop aims to bring together ECRs from the UK and China for enhancing their professional development and capacity to disseminate their research findings and exchange their knowledge and skills on tooth development and tissue engineering research. This will train the ECRs to become the next generation of scientists and clinicians for dental tissue reconstruction (rebuilding) and/or regeneration (growing a new tooth). This will be achieved via selected keynote lectures/invited talks, oral presentations (ECRs), mentoring sessions, network sessions/groups discussions, industrial sessions and interaction with our PhD students.

Our objectives include but are not limited to:
1. 6 keynote lectures by the coordinators/mentors and 4 invited lectures/industry session.
2. 21 selected oral presentations for the ECRs research sessions.
3. 4 Mentoring sessions: ECRs to have one-on-one meetings with the mentors/invited speakers.
4. Network sessions/group discussions.
5. Other sessions/topics: Funding and career opportunities, international collaborations.
